Seek Zoning Change for Montgomery Pike

Petition Presented to Borough
Council at Meeting
Monday.

THIRTY-TWO SIGNERS

A petition was presented to the Narberth Borough Council on Monday night requesting a change in the zoning of Montgomery Avenue from Narberth to Haverford Avenues, from a residential to a business district.

Of the forty-two property owners in that section of Montgomery Avenue, thirty-two were signers of the petition, four refused to sign, three were not reached and three are said to favor the petition.

The matter was referred to the Ordinance and Law Committee of Council. It was intimated that a public hearing will be held on the subject before any action will be taken by Council. Several of the petitioners appeared at the meeting Monday night.

Several attempts have been made in the past to obtain the consent of Narberth's Board of Adjustment of Zoning to use various properties along the south side of Montgomery Avenue in this section for business purposes. One of these was successful and resulted in the erection of a gasoline filling station on the site of the old blacksmith shop at the corner of Haverford and Montgomery Avenues. Another, sought several times by J. Baird Caldwell for a property on Montgomery owned by him, has been consistently refused.

Advocates of the zoning change point out that the north side of the street in Lower Merion is zoned for business and Narberth's side of the street should be similarly zoned.

Fire at General Wayne

Fire destroyed a small shed in the rear of the General Wayne Inn, Narberth, last Sunday night. The blaze was started by burning papers and leaves which blew about the yard. The apparatus of the Narberth Fire Company answered the alarm which was sent at 6:30 P. M. Two hours later the firemen were called out again as the fire had rekindled in a nearby spot. After that it stayed out.

1394 Buildings in Roro

A survey of the borough made by Superintendent of Public Works George B. Suplee and Robert F. Wood, chairman of the borough's Highway Committee, on Monday shows that there are 1349 buildings in the borough. These are divided as follows: 1231 houses, 43 apartments, 59 stores, 1 theatre, 1 bank, 1 post office, 5 churches, 5 public garages, 1 fire house and 2 schools.

Drowned at Sea

son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Callahan, of 109 Conway Avenue, Narberth, a member of the U. S. Coast Guard, who was drowned at sea near Boston. The funeral with military honors took place in Narberth on Monday.

Reservations Being Made for Club's Fall Luncheon

Reservations for the annual fall luncheon of the Narberth Women's Club may be made with Mrs. J. E. Burrell, Merion 1404, any time before Monday, November 17, at noon. All members of the club and their friends are invited to attend.

On November 25, the first of a series of benefit tea bridges will be held in the club room in Elm Hall. Mrs. F. J. Wheeler, Chairman of all club parties, will be in charge, with Mrs. J. Arley Farmer and Mrs. H. F. Stevens as co-chairman for this party. Play will begin at 2 P. M.

Guiding Young Ladies Is One of Election Day's Compensations, Polls Worker Finds

(Specially contributed by The Spectator)
The erudite editor has suggested that our day at the polls might be worth a column of comment which would be of some interest to the other participants, and, of course, pretty nearly everybody in town, as the records reveal, was a participant in that quite eventful election.

To come in contact with more than 500 earnest citizens on duty-bent, even if a great part of it was of the most casual fashion, ought to provide a wealth of experience, and indeed it does, but it is chiefly that kind of experience which adds to one's general knowledge of men and things with few of the odds and ends which make for a tale worth telling.

On an assignment like this the amateur would seem to have a decided advantage, on the basis of results, over

Awards Feature of Post's Yearly Banquet

Judge Williams and Stoney
McLinn Are Speakers at Enthusiastic Affair.

J. J. CABREY HONORED

Enthusiasm, cited by guest speaker J. Ambler Williams, president judge of Montgomery County, as the chief contribution of the United States to the winning of the Great War, was prevalent at the annual banquet on Armistice Day evening of the Harold D. Speakman Post, of Narberth.

Over one hundred citizens of the borough and members of the Legion met together in the Community Building, partook of a good dinner, listened to outlines of the Legion's work and purposes, and heard the speakers of the evening, Judge Williams and Stoney McLinn, sports editor of the Ledger.

The affair was marked by the presentation of badges of office to the Post's officers: Senior vice commander, Dr. A. J. Denman (who was unable to be present); junior vice commander, William H. Durbin; adjutant, Alex C. Betus; chaplain, the Rev. Robert E. Keighton; finance officer, John A. Mowrer, Jr.; service officer, Jack Clark; sergeant-at-arms, E. O. Mensinger. The five members of the Executive Committee were also similarly honored by Commander Frank A. Schrepfer, who presided at the banquet. They were John Nash, A. Perry edifer, Jr., C. H. Greyer, Clifford D. Goodwin and W. W. Fretz.

The past commander's medal was

Attend Harrisburg Meeting

Main Line delegates at the annual meeting of the State Advisory Council of the Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania held at Harrisburg on Tuesday included Mrs. Fletcher W. Stites and Mrs. John A. LaFore, of Narberth. The president, Mrs. H. M. Bunting, made the report for Montgomery County. The afternoon session of the meeting consisted of a round-table discussion led by Benjamin H. Ludlow, of Ardmore, on "The Job of Being a Board Member."

Budget, Cut $600, Adopted by Recreation Board

At a meeting of the Narberth Recreation Board on Wednesday evening, the budget of $2500 for next year was adopted. This amount, which is $600 less than this past year, will be equally appropriated by Council and the School Board.

Plans for next year include a wading pool for the small children, an additional teacher for playground supervision, and new fencing and equipment. The major part of the appropriation goes for salaries of playground supervisors.

The Red Cross room in Elm Hall will be open on Saturday, November 15, Monday, November 17, Thursday, November 20, and Saturday, November 22, from 2 to 4, at which time captains can turn in any funds they have already collected. Someone will be at the room to keep an accurate account and they will be credited with whatever they turn in from time to time.

Narberth Ball Club May Omit Banquet; End Season with Deficit

Recommendations that their annual fall banquet be omitted this year and discussion of a financial statement showing a $300 deficit for the season, are expected to feature a meeting next week of officers of the Narberth Baseball Club. It will be held in the Narberth Coal Company office, 7:30 P. M. Wednesday.

Among reasons given by Gene Davis, manager of the Main Line's champion nine, for not giving the banquet: a desire to avoid competition with the Narberth American Legion Armistice Day banquet, and transference of the public's interest from the diamond to the gridiron.

That the club's finances are low, as per the following statement, is attributed to a $150 decrease in donations, a cost of $190 for resurfacing the ball park, and an outlay of about $300 for new uniforms.

Building During Past Month Amounts to $4005

The report of the building inspector as presented at the November meeting of Council Monday night showed that a total of eight building permits had been issued during October for operations amounting to $4005. The cost of the permits was $30.

The following were granted: Ralph D. Brunt, 328 Woodbine Avenue, roof, $250; D. H. Vogel, 230 Dudley Avenue, garage, $1100; George Steele, 219 Conway Avenue, garage, $450; Arthur Follette, 222 Wayne Avenue, garage, $800; F. W. Stites, remodeling porch, $1000; A. G. Follette, rear porch, $40; Alan Kirk, 104 Elmwood Avenue, $65; Helen B. Caldwell, 122 Elmwood Avenue, addition to garage, $300.

Twenty-two inspections were made by the building inspector during the month, four operations being completed.

Banquet Speaker

J. AMBLER WILLIAMS
President Judge of Montgomery County, who spoke at the annual Armistice Day banquet of the Harold D. Speakman Post, American Legion, of Narberth, on Tuesday evening.

presented to Arthur L. Cooke by Harry Simpson. J. J. Cabrey, for outstanding services to the Narberth Post, was presented with a State distinguished service certificate, making him an honorary member of the Harold D. Speakman Post. The past adjutant's badge was also presented to Roland K. Hewitt.

Stoney McLinn, the first speaker of the evening, was introduced by Burgess Henry A. Frye. Mr. McLinn, whose father, the late Rev. Milton E. McLinn, former pastor of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, was well known to many of those present, made a plea for an open conscience on the subject of Sunday baseball. "I see no difference," Mr. McLinn said, "between the enjoyment of Sunday motoring and the recreation derived from watching a game of Sunday baseball." A sports event was cited as the best advertising a city or community can have, the speaker said. "I am glad to see that Narberth gets its share through its fine baseball team."

The second speaker, Judge Williams, was introduced by Fletcher W. Stites. "We hear a lot about the breakdown of authority nowadays," the Judge said "in the family, the church and the Government. There is no breakdown of authority in these institutions. The breakdown of authority is in ourselves. We must be willing to yield the obedience required if the State, the church and the family are to endure."

The United States contribution to the successful ending of the war, according to the speaker, was enthusiasm, which added to the munitions of the Allies, outweighed the military knowledge possessed by Germany.

War has its beneficial aspects, the Judge pointed out, which is proved by the morale of the armed conflict and the resulting infusion of new blood in the social organization.

Mrs. Chalfant Honored

Mrs. Harry M. Chalfant, of Chestnut Avenue, was the guest of honor at a luncheon on Tuesday given by the Women's Foreign Mission Society of the Narberth Methodist Church. The luncheon was a special tribute to Mrs. Chalfant as the retiring president of the organization, having served sixteen years in this capacity. Her co-workers presented her with a diamond and sapphire pin in a platinum setting. Mrs. A. J. Sigel, of Forrest Avenue, succeeds Mrs. Chalfant, as the President of the Women's Foreign Mission Society.

Main Lines

Now that the election is over, we take pleasure in offering some seventy pages, neatly typewritten on long white sheets of paper, giving the charges, counter-charges, views and prognostications of John M. Hemphill and Gifford Pinchot and their friends and foes. Mr. Pinchot's made more interesting reading, and we were thankful for their comparative brevity. Anyone wishing to read these campaign statements may have them for the asking, and upon payment of the necessary express or freight charges. Now that cold weather is clutching us, the papers may prove valuable.

We see that the name of Edward W. Bok has been drawn for duty on the Petit Jury at Norristown, November 17. After all the publicity that attended his death in Florida last year, we wonder if the county officials ever read the papers. Nor is this an isolated instance. The county machinery seems in this respect to be at least a year behind time, consistently.

For that matter we are still noticing stories in the Saturday Evening Post (our nearby contemporary, of which you may have heard) containing illustrations by a gentleman named Brown, whose obituary appeared on the Post's editorial page a couple of years ago.

What odds and ends of curious information have you about Main Line places and people? Did you know, for instance, that there is a landscape gardener or something of the sort in Devon whose name appears on his truck as Hyacinth D'Ignazio? Very pleasant sounding. And West Manayunk has a gentleman of similar occupation whose name is Nuzz Stumpo.

* * *

McClenaghan's Mill Road, at its beginning on Montgomery Pike, Wynnewood, has a road sign which has been spelled, for many years, Montgomery. When we pointed this out in the affiliated Bala-Cynwyd News recently, a linotype operator took occasion to spell "misspelled" as "misspeled," in order to chasten us. Lord knows what he'll make of it now! Don't blame the writer if this paragraph goes blooey.

And Hekamore Road, a curious little "L" of a road (proofreader, please don't aspiate that "L") that runs for half a block from City Line to Bryn Mawr Avenue in Bala, is spelled Hekamore at one end and Hekamore at the other. We learn that it was named by T. J. Reilly, who built several homes in the section, after his daughters Helen, Katherine, Monica and Reta.

Begin Work on Borough Register Book This Week

The first step in the compilation of the Borough Register, the book which will list all properties in the Borough of Narberth by streets and also alphabetically, was taken this week.

Notices were mailed today to property owners on Rockland, Merion and Chestnut Avenues requesting the presentation of deeds at the borough office, Elm Hall, on weekdays during the hours of 8 to 12 and from 1 to 5, every weekday afternoon except Saturday. These deeds are to be presented during the week of November 17. The remainder of the south side is to be called in for the week beginning November 24. After this work is completed a schedule will be announced for the north side.

The object of the registry book, authority for which was granted by Council at its June meeting, is to avoid the confusion which has resulted in the past from the numbering of lots and properties in Narberth. Various land companies have changed the numbers of lots with the result that properties have been sold for unpaid taxes when the owners were unaware they were up for sale under a different lot number. The Borough Register, while not retroactive, will prevent the recurrence of such unfortunate episodes in the future by the uniform listing of all properties.

The Growth of a Nuisance

Ten years ago the college youth who wanted to see the country needed little in the way of carfare. Clad in good clothes he stood by the road, wiggled his thumb, and settled in the seat beside a driver bound for distant parts.

Tuesday night Brigadier General Robert M. Brookfield, Narberth-bound, picked up three hitch-hikers, leaving his car and money sometime later at the insistence of a revolver.

Thus we can trace the growth of what has become both a nuisance and a grave danger. The casual passenger can no longer be regarded as a welcome guest. The lone motorist must continue his trip unaccompanied.

Two factors have contributed to this change. The first has been the realization on the part of hold-up men that here was a golden opportunity; the second factor is the lowered age of the average criminal.

Ten years ago the motorist, accosted by a walking youth, picked him up with the assurance of pleasant company and safety. College and high school boys, out to see the country, chose this method of travel. They were mostly a group of intelligent and courteous boys. They were good companions, "spelled" the driver at the wheel, shared the difficulties of the road.

The next step, and the first sign of the coming nuisance, was the increase in hitch-hikers. Around the cities street gamins thumbled all passing cars; factory workers sought a cheap means of travel; rough-necks cursed the car that would not stop.

Then came the stick-up man, the thug, the car-thief, the blackjacker. Increasingly came reports of kind-hearted motorists beaten up and left on lonely roads, of missing watches and wallets. The traveling college man nearly disappeared from the road in the face of the increased competition and the rougher element took his place.

Today the warning goes out constantly from police, motorists' clubs and newspapers to pick up no strangers on the road, for not only are we risking assault, but an accident finds us open to suit on the part of the guest.

It is unfortunate that kind-hearted and courteous folks have to be the victims whose plight, spread across the pages of the newspapers, warns others not to trust the stranger. But if misfortunes, such as the one which befell General Brookfield really serve as a warning to others, the hitch-hiking bandit will soon be a thing of the past.

Bewildered Cattle Act as Check to Pilots Off Course, Pennsy Official Says

A method of using grazing cattle to guide airplanes was explained Tuesday by Harry T. Wilkins, speaking before the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club. The idea, while novel, was declared to be practical.

Apparently, according to the speaker, modern transport routes are run on such an accurate course that horses, cattle and wild animals along the way in the remote prairies have learned to take the roaring tri-motors for granted. The pilot can look down and see them peacefully grazing as his shadow tears along the ground.

But if the plane has to detour—that is another story. By looking down and observing the concern and terror among the earth-bound creatures the pilot can tell at once he is off his course. To what extent this idea will replace navigating instruments was not stated.

The growth of airplanes as a regular means of transportation was shown by Mr. Wilkins, who is manager of railway exhibits for the Pennsy.

Tracing modern transportation to the origin of railroads more than a century ago, Mr. Wilkins pointed out the continued and rapid improvements in all lines of transportation. The latest and greatest development, he said, was the air-rail and all-air travel system.

The air-rail started in the summer of 1929 with the inauguration of 48 hour service from coast to coast which was subsequently speeded up. Now through planes are in operation making the run in 36 hours, which time will shortly be cut to an even day.

The planes now make 9 stops, he said. The shortest hop is 175 miles, made in two hours, and the longest 300 miles, made in three hours.

Guiding Young Ladies Is Election Day Compensation

tickets, the majority for Hemphill exceeding the sum-total of the Liberal vote, a notable achievement, it might be modestly said, if we properly value the rock-ribbed nature of this thoroughly Republican community.

Mr. Davis was regarded as quite an undesirable fellow from various viewpoints and the job would not have been well done, according to the Liberal workers, if he were not included in the rebuke which was being registered against the present liquor laws. In each of the other two voting districts of Narberth the Democratic vote was correspondingly large and in fact the Borough's percentage of straight Democratic ballots was the highest in the county. That's something for Ed Haws to ponder pretty well and no doubt he will.

* * *

It might also be recorded, as further attesting the simon-pure amateur standing of the men and women who worked for the Liberal Party, that the Norristown headquarters offered $150 for the day's expenses in Narberth, watchers' stipends, advertising and the rest of it, but none was accepted, as not only was all service rendered gratis, but the very same workers, plus a few friends of the cause, also footed their own bills for the rather extensive publicity which preceded the election. We wonder what Charlie Johnson would think of a crowd like that.

The day also had its irritating features, with the mean weather and colds all around, and so it was not surprising that a little bust-up occurred as the afternoon went on.

Not the least of the attractions of the job is the privilege which is yours of taking some of the town's nice girls under your wing and explaining to them, in that expert way which you so quickly acquire, all the intricacies of the great occasion. Along, then, comes such a one, as petite as could be, who looks searchingly up the lane, but does not enter. We have a notion she wants to, but is somewhat diffident about it. Inquiry proved this to be true and we learn that she has just turned twenty-one and wants to vote on age. She mentions her name and we remember her exceedingly well. This Narberth certainly does grow its young ladies in fine fashion and we don't know an exception to the rule. Up the alley we go, the embryo citizen all agog, and the imposing papers are quickly signed. And then the little lady asks us how to split her ballot. It was, of course, the most natural thing in the world for us to tell her, not knowing the terrible transgression which is held against you if you "electioneer" in the booth. Our voice is not particularly dulcet and Charlie Noel overheard what we said. Comes forth a sharp reprimand and the judge is requested to see that we don't offend again.

Well, we knew we were innocent even if Charlie didn't and so we simply couldn't let him get away with it. Outside he is invited and a few stern things told him. For a minute, it looked worse than that, but we both had a cold and we soon ran out of steam, restoring the old world and District No. 1 to their wonted equilibrium without any bones being broken or blood spent. Charlie promised not to do it again and so did we.

There was another pretty girl who came along right after the heavy rain had ceased, and, after being assured that she was quite 21, we proceeded to tell her our very best Hemphill story. We felt sure we were making real progress, as she listened most attentively and beamed most cordially, but at the end of our rather complete narrative she sweetly informed us that she lived in Ardmore, at which point Fred Walzer let loose one of his loudest guffaws. Nevertheless, she returned very soon and wanted to hear the exposition once again, and how does Mr. Walzer like that?

Church Loyalty Crusade

At Lutheran Church

Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, of which the Rev. Cletus A. Senft is pastor, is conducting a Church Loyalty Crusade during the month of November. The first service of the Crusade was held last Sunday morning with Dr. John E. Hummon, of Chicago, who is directing the Crusade as speaker. The first service was designated as loyalty service and roll call, the members and friends bringing roll call cards as an indication of their presence. The interest on roll call Sunday was most encouraging.

Next Sunday, November 16, will be family Sunday and the morning service will be most engaging, with the pastor, Rev. Senft bringing a message on the subject, "God's Great Challenge for Holy Trinity Church."

The Sunday evening service will be given over to the men and their friends. A special speaker has been engaged and the choir is preparing special music for this unique service. The men of the community are most cordially invited.

To Discuss Prohibition

On Sunday at 6:45 P. M. the Epworth League of the Narberth Methodist Episcopal Church will hold the first of a series of six or seven meetings upon the prohibition question. Everybody, especially the "younger generation," is invited. At these meetings all sides of the question will be heard. Come prepared to give your view and to listen to the opinions of others.

C. E. Society

The Senior C. E. Society of the Narberth Presbyterian Church enjoyed a very pleasant fellowship at the Sunday evening supper with the Rev. Wade C. Smith as the speaker. Thirty-two people were present. This Sunday evening E. J. Kline will speak at 7 o'clock. All the young people of Narberth are invited.

Armistice Service

The service last Sunday evening at the Narberth Methodist Episcopal Church, sponsored by the Harold D. Speakman Post of the American Legion, was attended by members of all Narberth churches. An Armistice Day address was delivered by Commander H. Dumstray, chaplain of the U. S. Naval Home at Gray's Ferry. Appropriate anthems were sung by the Methodist choir.

Miss Ely Speaker At Bryn Mawr Club

Urges Small Study Groups to Discuss Political Questions.

Miss Gertrude Ely, State Chairman of the League of Women Voters, was the speaker at the Woman's Club of Bryn Mawr.

Miss Ely gave a brief resume of existing political conditions in this country today, particularly the viewpoint of the voter, who just votes for this or that bill because Tom Jones down the street told him to. She urged the women to put on their thinking caps and to form small groups where the various vital political questions could be discussed intelligently regardless of party affiliations. Miss Ely said that "the trouble with most of us is that we either forget or can't make up our minds to do a certain thing." Her definition of a good citizen was "one who takes part intelligently in a democratic form of government."

Miss Ely spoke of her recent experiences in Russia and told of the autocratic government there, but that it had one point in its favor and that was that it was a new one. The question arises, she pointed out, as to whether our Government, to a certain extent, is also autocratic and that we, too, have to take orders as do the people of Russia.

Travel Talk on Ireland to Be Given Thursday

Wit and humor, song and story, sketches of happy life in the Emerald Isle, with 100 beautiful pictures, will give realistic character to the Travel Talk on Ireland to be given by the Rev. Assisting Mr. MacAdams will be Miss Ernestine Bacon, lyric soprano; Dorothy Power, harpist; Mrs. MacAdams, contralto; George Wetherill, tenor, and Thomas Barlow, bass. Among the songs which will be sung are "Ireland Must Be Heaven," "Irish Eyes Are Smiling," "The Harp That Once Through Tara's Hall."

'Preserve Individuality of Lower Merion by Township Plan'—Plea At Community Council

Aims of Planning Discussed by John Nolen At Ardmore Meeting.

"Lower Merion Township may become the best example of what a modern suburban district may be. There is no township like it in the country. Preserve its individuality through a Township Plan." Such was the clarion call sounded by John Nolen, eminent city and township planner, speaking before a dinner meeting of the Ardmore Community Council Friday, October 24.

Mr. Nolen, a former resident of Ardmore, and one of the drafters of Lower Merion's Zoning Ordinance, was introduced by Andrew Macdonald, vice president of the Township Board of Commissioners.

Planning, the speaker said, has come about as the result of two tendencies, centralization and decentralization. The former has produced our big cities with their high buildings, traffic problems and the like, while the latter has come about partly as a reaction to centralization and also as a result of our new ideas of living. It has caused haphazard growth and an invasion of the suburban territory.

"The present is a time of transition," Mr. Nolen said. "It is either drift or take hold. The latter means zoning with its merits and limitations, and planning."

Planning, according to Mr. Nolen, means a hand on the rudder of evolution. It is big in the territory included, comprehensive in its method, taking design, use and appearance into consideration. It shows trends, plans for generations ahead, and includes all of men's lives.

"Furthermore," the speaker said, "Planning pays in cold cash. We haven't yet come to recognize the economies that result from doing things the right way. The cost of not planning surrounds us on every side in congestion, delays and waste."

The objects of Planning were summarized briefly by Mr. Nolen as follows: To relieve traffic congestion, add to safety, stabilize property values, lower tax rates, improve public health, help the child, enlarge pleasures, add to the amenities and make life less drab.

Eighty-two members and guests of the Ardmore Community Council attended the meeting.

Township Plan Idea Gains Supporters

The interest created in a township plan by John Nolen, speaking before a recent meeting of the Ardmore Community Council, will in all probability be perpetuated through the creation of a special Township Planning Committee. The organization of such a committee is expected to take place shortly by those interested in the matter.

"I heartily approve of the idea of a township plan for Lower Merion," said William J. Serrill, president of the Community Health and Civic Association, when interviewed on the subject yesterday.

"The logical way to go about such a matter though," Mr. Serrill said, "would be to include Haverford Township and perhaps Radnor in the territory and not confine the plan to Lower Merion alone. The natural boundaries of the Main Line section are the Schuylkill River on the north and Darby Creek on the south. The county and township line running through the middle of our section is unfortunate in that it does not indicate a natural boundary.

"In many sections of the country," Mr. Serrill continued, "the county has been considered the unit for local planning. Whether that would be practicable in Montgomery or not I do not know. All that our county government does at present is build roads and bridges and take care of elections.

"What do you think of Mr. Nolen's statement that Lower Merion is unprogressive since it is not using a very large percent. of its resources," Mr. Serrill was asked.

"I think that it is correct in large measure," was the reply. "Our ten-mill tax rate with an additional two mills granted by the Court for highways is absurd in a section as wealthy as this. The Community Health and Civic Association, through its Regional Planning Committee, has long advocated the acquisition of land in the Gulph Valley between Narberth and Cynwyd for park purposes and while the Board of Commissioners of the township have looked favorably upon the idea, no action has ever been taken since they say the township cannot afford it. It is only through public ownership that park sites can be pre-

Merion Woman Writes Children's Book With Her Adventurous Dog 'Ty Cobb' as the Hero

There's a mighty interesting personality right here along our own Main Line and HER name is Ty Cobb Bird. "Ty," as SHE is called by her intimates, is the wirehaired terrier owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Montgomery Bird, of 709 Beacom Lane, Merion. And SHE is the heroine of a charming children's book, "Bristles," written by Mrs. Bird and just recently published by Little, Brown and Company, of Boston.

Just meeting Ty, you know at once there is something different about her. Ty takes a long look at you out of those very intelligent brown eyes and you realize that she has that same "It" in them that has carried a certain vicious movie star to fame. It is easy to understand why her mistress was inspired to write a story with Ty in the principal role, and with the Main Line as a setting.

Bristles, who is really Ty, of course, is the beloved pet of a family living at Brynwood, on the Main Line. But Bristles, feeling the call of the unknown, runs away from home and is finally picked up by a clown in a circus. Then, a year later, the circus comes to Philadelphia and the Brynwood family, of course, go to see it. They think they recognize Bristles, and the little boy of the family determines he will make sure. But the story mustn't be spoiled for anyone by telling all of it. And there are some

Sixteen Years in Navy Is Record of Lieut. Duke of L. M. Police

Enlisted When 16, Serving in China Station For Nine Years and in Mediterranean During the War;
Joined Force in 1926.

The third of a series of articles to introduce the members of Lower Merion's splendid police force to our readers.

By ROBERT M. CAMERON

It is not given to all men to visit every country on the globe, to slide off the Great Wall of China, to ride camels through the Egyptian desert and to be buffeted about on each of the seven seas, but such are some of the experiences which Lieutenant Clarence A. Duke, of the Lower Merion Police force, can look back upon.

Born in Colfax, Iowa, on August 6, 1893, Duke enlisted in the United States Navy when a boy of 16 on April 24, 1909. He served his apprenticeship on the old wooden sailing ship, "Pensacola," and later was assigned to the China station where he was stationed for nine years. In addition to serving in the Philippines, China and Japan, Duke was a member of landing parties in Nicaragua during the disturbances there in 1912 and in Mexico in 1914 and received campaign medals for participation in both these expeditions.

When the United States entered the Great War, Duke was stationed at Manila Bay in the Philippines on the destroyer Bainbridge, the first destroyer to be commissioned by the U. S. Navy. The Bainbridge immediately set out for European waters by way of the Suez Canal. En route Duke witnessed fighting between the British and Turks in Arabia, and the first Austrian air raid on Naples when lying in the harbor in the shadow of Mt. Vesuvius. Terrific storms on the Indian Ocean pitched the old destroyer like a chip, but after a voyage of 11,000 miles, which required eighty-four days, the Bainbridge arrived at Gibraltar, which was to be its base.

Although never torpedoed Duke had the uncomfortable experience once of seeing a torpedo shot from a German submarine coming on a bee line for his destroyer, which would have blown the little boat and its crew to Davy Jones' Locker had it not been that the shallow draft of the destroyer allowed the torpedo to pass under it without any damage.

"Most of our time during the war was spent convoying troop ships in the Mediterranean," said Lieutenant Duke. "We would see submarines every so often but we never sank any. One time when we first came to the zone, we spotted one a few miles off disguised as a sailboat which was an old trick of the U boats. So, being green at the job, we and a couple of other destroyers bore down upon it at once only to have it submerge and leave nothing for us but a bit of sail and flimsy boat sides."

Despite having traveled all over the world in all kinds of weather, chiefly in destroyers and cruisers, Lieutenant Duke was never seasick a day in his life. Anyone who has been on board or seen any of the old destroyers at the Philadelphia Navy Yard can realize what a comparatively frail vessel a destroyer is in which to ride heavy seas.

"We struck some of the roughest weather imaginable in the Indian Ocean on our way to Gibraltar from Manila," said the lieutenant. "There was no room to move on the boat and all anyone could do was to hang onto the rails."

Long service in foreign parts has made Lieutenant Duke somewhat of a linguist, chiefly of languages which are not taught in our schools. When in the East he picked up a knowledge of two Filipino dialects, a smattering of Chinese and Japanese and during the war having Gibraltar as a base, he learned to speak Spanish like a native.

Released from active service in the navy on January 11, 1926, as a chief boatswain's mate after nearly seventeen years' service. Duke joined the Lower Merion Police Department in March of the same year. His ability soon manifested itself and when a vacancy occurred in a lieutenantancy in 1928, he was appointed to the post. As a member of the Fleet Naval Reserve, Lieutenant Duke is subject to call back into the service on three days' notice in case of a national emergency.

Lieutenant Duke was married in 1919 to Miss Margaret Love, of Upper Darby. They have two children, a boy of ten and a girl 3, and live at 45 Wellington Road, Ardmore.

Library Offers Helps For Club Program Makers

The library has received recently, through the courtesy of Mrs. John B. Brooks, editor of the Montgomery County Clubwoman, a pamphlet called "Helps for Program Makers." As its name implies, the pamphlet is an index of books, periodicals, subjects of study and State agencies, all of which afford valuable information not only for librarians who work in co-operation with women's clubs, but with all who are pursuing definite reading courses whether independently or in a group.

There is a main index by subject, including art, the Bible, budgets, child study, modern literature, interior decoration, music, social hygiene, as well as an index of material on program-making and club management, and a list of the books analyzed, giving publishers and prices.

The list is compiled by Elizabeth Gillette Henry, of the Seattle Public Library, a librarian who has had considerable experience in making club programs, and in co-operating with many women's organizations who have been interested in definite reading courses. The American Library Association approves the pamphlet by publishing it and all women interested in these subjects should find it of much service.

Union Announces Luncheon

The annual luncheon of the Woman's Interdenominational Union of Philadelphia and vicinity will be held on Thursday, November 20, at 12:30 o'clock at the Bellevue-Stratford. The guest speaker will be the Rev. Dr. A. W. Beaver, president of Colgate University, Rochester, N. Y. His topic will be "The Christian Movement in a Changing World."

Tickets for the luncheon may be obtained from Mrs. A. H. Holcombe, 343 Bala Avenue, Cynwyd.

Sub-Juniors Bridge

On Monday evening, November 17, the Sub-Juniors will give a bridge party at Elm Hall from 7:30 until 9 o'clock. Refreshments will be served. Mrs. W. H. Muller, the new chairman, and Mrs. L. Parker Miller, the president, will be the hostesses. All girls between the ages of 15 and 18 are cordially invited.

things about Ty that aren't in the story that are interesting.

Mrs. Bird has had Ty ever since she was a puppy of seven weeks—she's now nearly four years old. She is really deserving of her name, for she is as quick as a flash, always doing the unexpected, and generally stirring things up—all attributes of the great baseball player, says Mrs. Bird, who is an ardent baseball fan.

But not forgetting our heroine, Ty, for she is a heroine and not a hero, despite the masculine connotation of the name, she climbs trees and digs deep holes in the ground, until just the end of her very expressive tail can be seen. In fact when calling, her owner has to keep a wary eye on the surrounding landscape for fear Ty will start for China at any minute.

Mrs. Bird understands a great deal about dog psychology and one can understand why she is able to write such sympathetic books about them, for though "Bristles" is her first effort, it surely won't be her last, for it is running third in the Little, Brown & Co. list, which is quite an accomplishment for a "first book."

Every tone of Ty's bark, every excited and quick movement she makes is understood by Mrs. Bird, who in talking about dogs in general made as she could tell, a dog never really the interesting statement that as far abandoned the purpose it had in mind. It might be temporarily stopped, but the canine mind is tenacious and always tries to carry out the idea formerly conceived.

One of Ty's ideas is that a bath is a thing to be avoided whenever dog ingenuity may be exercised. So that on the day selected for the bath, the Bird home is wrapped in mystery, as it were. Laundry tubs are filled hours ahead of time, no word of bath is allowed to escape and then all at once the unsuspecting Ty is pounced upon and carried to the scene of action. But in spite of the bath aversion, she likes all the chairs and things that have just been vacuumed and gets a sense of pleasure from cleanlines. Or so it seems to her mistress.

Mrs. Bird, who was the former Theodocia Walton, comes from an old Philadelphia Friends family. For some time she did newspaper work on the old Philadelphia Press and later on, for the Inquirer. "Bristles" was written the summer before last when the children were away at camp. On her husband's side of the family, she is allied to an early American author, Dr. Robert Montgomery Bird, of New Castle, Del., and Philadelphia, who wrote many novels and plays and a best seller, "Nick of the Woods," which is still reprinted every so often. Dr. Bird, who was the grandfather of the present Robert Montgomery Bird, also wrote "The Gladiator," a play in which Edwin Forrest appeared over 2000 times, in the United States and abroad.

served, and the longer the acquisition of such sites is put off the slimmer grows the chance of getting them without prohibitive cost."

The impression given by Mr. Nolen that the Philadelphia Tri-State Regional Planning Federation would go out of business next July was characterized by Mr. Serrill as erroneous. "It has been the usual practice in New York and elsewhere that when the final plan has been made and the money raised for that purpose spent, that the organization still continues in one form or another to push the carrying out of the work and see that it is done in the proper way.

A Week's News of the Main Line Sporting World

On the Fifty-Yard Line

With TOMMY MACKLIN

The brilliant showing made by Lower Merion against Norristown last Saturday was somewhat overshadowed by the presence of Knute Rockne and his League of Nations football team at Franklin Field. No one expected Coach Adam's hirelings to crush so completely their long-time foes from the county capital, but that they did, and the boys from the Blue and White will not forget that battle for years to come. Fifty-three to nothing is a one-sided score, and no team should defeat another by such a score in modern football when good material is available. Norristown should do better than that. We predicted three years ago, when Norristown's School Board voted to discontinue interschool athletics at the two Junior High Schools that Norristown's partial rule in suburban athletic circles was at an end. That prediction has come true, and with a vengeance. No longer does the Blue and White receive into her sophomore class young athletes already grounded in fundamentals of athletics. Last year for the first time this fact began to prove disastrous. The football team took several lacerations, and the basketball team likewise suffered several defeats. The baseball team, once the monarchs of the suburban realm, failed to come through. Lower Merion has defeated her ancient rival in every football game since relations were restored three years ago, and last season Anderson's basketball team smothered them under a mountain of field goals in both of the games. Rather a sad situation for a community that loves sports and supports its teams as Norristown does.

Captain John Pennypacker and Harry Frazer accounted for five touchdowns between them. Harry ran better than he has all year, and Pennypacker was almost unstoppable.

Next Saturday the Maroon and White will meet the Upper Darby clan, an eleven that always finishes strong, and may be depended upon to give Lower Merion a hard fight.

Radnor follows the next week, and are not strong enough to upset the suburban champions greatly. Lower Merion should finish the season with her greatest victory in history over her greatest rival.

Villanova has played too many strong teams this season. You can't play out of your class in that game and win them all. Only Knute can do that, and out in Notre Dame it's not a game; it's a business.

This team that is already called the greatest team in the history of football by sports writers drunk with adjectives has yet to meet Northwestern and Southern California. Don't be surprised if either of these sink the team from South Bend.

Put Captain Gentle in the backfield with a line like Notre Dame's and a coach like Knute Rocke, and he will score more than three touchdowns in any game. That boy is a wonder.

Brill, Savoldi, Schwartz and company carry the ball forty, fifty or sixty yards with interference. Gentle carries it the same distance without any.

Haverford came through Saturday against Hamilton. Maybe they can finish the season with better luck.

Harvey Harman and Paul Scull, coaches at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tennessee, brought home their first victory of the season last week against Chattanooga University. Harman's team is playing a major schedule, stronger than that played by Villanova or even Pennsylvania in its entirety, and they are not likely to win more than a couple this year. Next season may be another story. Harman, in our estimation, is one of the coming coaches of the country, and Paul Scull knows how to teach a backfield a few tricks.

The Lower Merion Junior High team easily defeated Pottstown Junior High, 18 to 0. They will win or lose the suburban championship this week when they play Radnor Juniors on the Ardmore field.

Guiding Young Ladies Is Election Day Compensation

And neither should we forget to mention, as indicating the ladies have a way about them all their own, in elections as in everything else, that just as we were in the midst of our incident with Charlie Noel, inside the polls, a soft feminine voice, recognized instantly as belonging in Essex Avenue, implored us to come under the curtain and show her exactly what she ought to do. Already in dispute, we looked at the judge and the judge looked at us, as we publicly deplored our inability to be of service in that particular quandary, much as we would like to.

There was many a good tilt with friends who had violently different notions about this prohibition business and who had their own particular set of circumstances to support the convictions which they had. All day long it was made manifest that there is precious little discrepancy between the reasonably minded of both sides as to what ought to be, but there is a wild and wide gap between the various ideas of the best way to accomplish it. Some of the humdinger points on our side could not be used, in certain instances, because the pest had invaded the very households which thought they were immune, and the folks in question pointed with glowing pride to what the law had accomplished for their young, little aware that, from our listening post on the corner, where boys and girls abound aplenty, we had come to know of totally contrary facts.

The problem is starting to head in without a doubt, as we fight it out as to what is the domain of the police-power and what belongs to the people and the pulpit; what belongs to the State and what belongs to the Nation as this Government is constituted; the respective values of two entirely different kinds of procedure in effecting a temperate land.

Let us hope, and plan, that some day, not far from now, we shall between us solve this riddle, and then, shoulder to shoulder, we shall go forward to bring into highest estate this glorious America, blessed of God and beloved of man, the most exalted opportunity for humanity in all the world if we shall only build so as to last long, with prudence and justice and charity—And the greatest of these is Charity.

Funeral of Narberth Youth Held Monday

Military Honors Given Body of Thomas Callahan, United States Coast Guardsman.

WAS DROWNED AT SEA

A funeral with military honors on Monday was accorded Thomas J. Callahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Callahan, of 109 Conway Avenue, Narberth, and a member of the United States Coast Guard, who was drowned at sea near Boston on October 26.

Callahan's body was found on November 5 in East Boston Harbor after a ten-day search made by the Government. It was received by his family last Friday, being escorted to Narberth by John O'Leary, a companion from the S. S. Antietam, on which Callahan served.

After services at the home of his parents, attended by friends and relatives, a high military Requiem Mass was held at St. Margaret's Church, Narberth, with the rector, the Rev. Robert F. Hayes, officiating. A detachment of men from the U. S. Coast Guard attended the service and formed a firing squad at the grave. Interment was at St. Denis' Cemetery.

Callahan, who was twenty years old, entered the Government service on May 5, 1929, and was stationed at the Coast Guard Service Radio Station at New London, Conn. After completing his training there he was recently removed for duty to Boston base number 5 and assigned to duty on the Coast Guard cutter S. S. Antietam.

Details of the accident and the recovery of the body are missing, the Government communication received by the parents on October 26 stating "drowned while in course of duty."

Callahan attended St. Colman's School, Ardmore.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Callahan; a brother, Matthew Callahan, Jr., and two sisters, Alice and Marie.

Tower School Worker to Address Parent-Teachers

Mrs. J. C. Hammond, of Tower Hill School, Wilmington, Del., will be the principal speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association of the Narberth Public School, to be held on next Monday evening, November 17.

As a parent, having two children in the Tower Hill School, Mrs. Hammond became interested in the relationship between the school and the parents, in the joint task of training children. Later she took special training for her present position, in which she is responsible for maintaining satisfactory contacts between the home

Narberth Youth, Randolph Keim, Harvard Scholarship Winner, Enjoys Life at Cambridge

JONATHAN R. KEIM

The official announcement comes from Harvard University that three Main Line boys are among the undergraduates who were awarded scholarships. Jonathan Randolph Keim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey C. Keim, of 202 Dudley Avenue, Narberth, has won a Harvard Club Scholarship, and is now living in McKlinock Hall, Cambridge, Mass.

His letters home are most enthusiastic. He writes that he is "continually impressed by the scenery around here . . . the first Sunday attended Appleton Chapel, heard Alfred Ernest Stearns, of Phillips Academy. His sermon was meant to show us that with the opportunities before us we could build well-rounded Christian lives. President Lowell read the Scriptures. He is certainly a lovable man."

In one letter he says "never fear that you have made a mistake in letting me come here; there is so much to do and so many advantages. It is not only that we have a great deal to do, but there are so many things we could do if the time would present itself. I must think of my work during every waking hour. But still I go swimming—every day play tennis. They have the right idea about athletics up here. Yesterday the Harvard boys showed their ability by nearly licking a great Michigan team."

Young Keim prepared for college at Lower Merion High School and while there took part in the school plays. In the athletic end of things, he tumbled and ran. At Harvard he is taking a general course.

His sister, Miss S. Lucia Keim, is a graduate of Oberlin College—took her M. A. degree at the University of Pennsylvania and is now teaching at the Germantown Friends' School.

and the school and helping both to work together to the best advantage. Her office is in the school building.

With the viewpoint of a parent as well as a teacher, she is especially well fitted to speak on a subject of interest to both, while her practical experience as a leader in the organization and administration of the Parent-Teachers Association will also be largely drawn upon for illustration of successful and profitable activities of such an organization in the school system.
